GUIDANCE

This guidance underpins our practice and that of the setting. This is a brief overview of some of the guidance that applies to this improvement plan. Further information on each of the mentioned Acts and guidance can be found on the internet or on the Care Inspectorate Hub. The Hub is full of useful information that informs our practice and supports positive outcomes for children, families, staff and the wider community.

Child Poverty (Scotland) Act 2017

2017 asp 6

The Bill for this Act of the Scottish Parliament was passed by the Parliament on 8th November 2017 and received Royal Assent on 18th December 2017

An Act of the Scottish Parliament to set targets relating to the eradication of child poverty; to make provision about plans and reports relating to the targets; and to establish the Poverty and Inequality Commission and provide for its functions.

12030 targets

(1)The Scottish Ministers must ensure that the 2030 targets are met in the financial year beginning with 1 April 2030.

(2)The 2030 targets are that, of children living in households in Scotland—

(a)less than 10% fall within section 3 (relative poverty),

(b)less than 5% fall within section 4 (absolute poverty),

(c)less than 5% fall within section 5 (combined low income and material deprivation),

(d)less than 5% fall within section 6 (persistent poverty).

Every child, every chance: tackling child poverty delivery plan 2018-2022

This Tackling Child Poverty Delivery Plan is the first crucial step in our journey towards meeting the ambitious targets set out in the Child Poverty (Scotland) Act 2017. The Act is a landmark piece of legislation that clearly positions Scotland as leading in the UK on tackling child poverty. It is a clear statement of the Scottish Government's intent to eradicate child poverty and this first Delivery Plan, covering the period 2018-22, will make a real difference to children's lives.

Poverty is fundamentally about lack of income. That's why the targets in the Act focus primarily on income measures and why the majority of the actions set out in this Plan are aimed specifically at increasing family incomes or reducing costs.

Action here will help children and families now. However, we will also do more to help families lessen the impacts of poverty and improve children's quality of life so that, ultimately, their life chances are improved. This will also help lower the risk that they themselves will be raising their own children in poverty in 2030.

Every part of government has a role in reducing child poverty and others need to play their full part too. That's why the Child Poverty (Scotland) Act also includes a local reporting duty, which will require local authorities and health boards to work together to report annually on what they are doing to tackle child poverty. We also want to ensure that everyone across Scotland has a stake in ending child poverty: this Plan's Partnership Working chapter explains how we're going to do just that.

Best Start, Bright Futures sets out how we will work together to deliver on Scotland's national mission to tackle child poverty. It is not solely a plan for the Scottish Government, it is a plan for all of Scotland, recognising the contribution all parts of society must make to deliver the change needed for children and families.

Successfully tackling child poverty requires our approach to evolve, to focus on outcomes rather than inputs, and to deliver evidence-informed wide ranging action across Scotland, which works together to wraparound and support families. It will require the transformation of our economy, further investment in key infrastructure such as childcare and transport, and provision of the right high-quality support at the right time in order to help families to move out of poverty.

GIRFEC – Getting it right for every child

Getting it right for every child (GIRFEC) is our commitment to provide all children, young people and their families with the right support at the right time. This is so that every child and young person in Scotland can reach their full potential.

We want all children and young people to live in an equal society that enables them to flourish, to be treated with kindness, dignity and respect, and to have their rights upheld at all times.

Our ambition is to work together with children, young people, families, organisations and communities to make Scotland the best place to grow up. Through GIRFEC, everyone in Scotland can work together to build the scaffold of support children and young people need to grow up loved, safe and respected.

GIRFEC provides Scotland with a consistent framework and shared language for promoting, supporting, and safeguarding the wellbeing of children and young people. It is locally embedded and positively embraced by organisations, services and practitioners across Children's Services Planning Partnerships, with a focus on changing culture, systems and practice for the benefit of babies, infants, children, young people and their families.

SIMOA:

Safety – Be alert to all potential risks in your setting

Inspect – Look around and inspect the environment to make sure a child can't leave an area without staff or their parent/carer.

Monitor – Regularly check that all children are accounted for, particularly when they are outside, on outings or using transport.

Observe – Observe children and think about their feelings and emotional security – use these observations to support children to feel loved and secure.

Act – Assess to take action to keep children safe.

MY WORLD OUTDOORS

My World Outdoors set out our position on the risks to children from playing outdoors and addressed some of the myths that had built up regarding regulation. For example, services would assume that as the regulator we would not tolerate children taking part in risky activities such as climbing trees, cooking on real fires or playing near water. In fact the opposite is the case and for children's overall health and wellbeing we recognise that the benefits far outweigh the risks, which can be properly managed.

SPACE TO GROW:

indoor/outdoor settings

Guidance for creating high-quality experiences and opportunities for children in indoor/outdoor settings

Space to Grow: indoor/outdoor settings aims to maximise the positive experiences for children by encouraging providers to think innovatively and flexibly about design and about the impact the environment can have on the quality of a child's care, development, learning, health and wellbeing. Some settings, have been registered to take account of the outdoor space to increase the number of places for children. In these settings account has been taken of the quality of the environment, children's use of indoor and outdoor space and the quality of opportunities and experiences for children. These settings are known as indoor/outdoor settings as described in Early Learning and Childcare: Delivering High Quality Play and Learning Environments Outdoors Practice Note.

Children's Rights Legislation in Scotland

The Scottish Government wants Scotland to become the best place in the world for a child to grow up, with opportunities for all in Scotland to flourish. An integral part of that vision is the recognition of, respect for and promotion of children's human rights.

Children, young people and human rights are central to three of Scotland's national outcomes:

- We grow up loved, safe and respected so that we realise our full potential
- We are well educated, skilled and able to contribute to society
- We respect, protect and fulfil human rights and live free from discrimination

Getting It Right for Every Child (GIRFEC) is Scotland's approach to improving outcomes and wellbeing for all children and young people. It builds on, and is reflected in a wide range of policies and strategies including the Early Years Framework, Curriculum for Excellence and Better Health, Better Care.

The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) is the internationally mandated, cross-government children's rights framework that informs each of these strategies and programmes. Part 1 of the Children and Young People (Scotland) Act 2014 places children's rights duties on Scottish Ministers and public authorities.

Firstly, however, in order to understand how the UNCRC applies to Scottish law and policy, we need to explore:

Human rights

- What we mean by 'human rights'

- International and European human rights frameworks
- Human rights in Scotland
- Children's rights
- What we mean by 'children's rights'
- The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC)

Food Matters: Nurturing happy healthy children

Food Matters shares Unicef's core message and vision: If a child receives the right nutrition and care at the start of their lives, they'll grow up healthy and strong – and there's no limit to what they can become. This aligns with Health and Social Care Standard 1.6: I get the most out of life because the people and organisation who support and care for me have an enabling attitude and believe in my potential.

Infection Prevention and Control in Childcare Settings (Day Care and Childminding Settings)

This document provides guidance on infection prevention and control for staff working within nurseries, day-care centres, playgroups, crèches, children's centres, childminders, after-school clubs and holiday clubs. This guidance should also be used by these staff involved in all outdoor activities for children. Staff working with children in childcare settings have a 'duty of care' to provide a safe environment for children. Social Care and Social Work Improvement Scotland (known as the Care Inspectorate) was set up under the Scottish Public Services Reform (Scotland) Act 2010 ('the Act') to register and inspect all services regulated under the Act and replaced the Care Commission on 1 April 2011.

The Care Inspectorate must take account of the National Care Standards, 'Early education and childcare up to the age of 16 (revised September 2009)' when registering and regulating these service types (see section 7).
